

Occasional Comfort Derived from the correct hang of toilet tissue.

Did anyone notice?

The little rundown, back water gas station.

The lights caked in the exoskeletons of unfortunate insects,

The wall paper peeling off the warped bathroom plywood.

I noticed.

Because they were my fingers

That pried the one ply roll free of its metal jaws

My eyes had noticed

as I sat on that cracked and yellowed from age plastic seat.

My brain would not forget it-

And by God I wouldn't piss with it hung behind like that.